

No Other Option? More Police Brutality

"Put those damn weapons down! I'm not going to tell you again, goddammit. Get those goddamn weapons down...!!!. Anytime we have policemen pointing weapons at American citizens, they need to go through re-trainings" (General Russell Honore' Commander: Joint Trade Task Force: Katrina)

"First Law: A robot may not injure a human being or through inaction allow a human being to come to harm. Second Law: A robot must obey orders given it by human beings except when such orders would conflict with the First Law. (Laws of Robotics: Isaac Asimov, 1942)

"We saw no other option but to use our bomb robot". (Dallas Police Chief, David Brown)

"The insanity begins at the top..." (Robert C. Koehler)

How long now before our fellow Americans finally wake up and realize that many of us who grew up in a supposedly democratic republic, now find ourselves living within a heavily militarized police state, committed to an imperialist agenda for global domination? Our new, post 9/11 reality, supposedly socially engineered for our safety and protection, requires an ongoing, 24/7 agenda of pervasive, intrusive surveillance; with privacy now relegated to the past. Have these nefarious measures, moved into place by media-assisted oligarchs, served to reduce fear and violence ... or are they agents in service of a larger agenda leading to total lockdown and repression?

Legal experts have expressed serious concerns following the events of July 7th during a non-violent, "Black Lives Matter" protest, involving Dallas police response to what was described as shooting deaths of five officers, and wounding of 7 others, after which a suspect was annihilated by a "killer robot". This military tactical device might be more accurately described as a remotely controlled tractor, formerly used to deliver pizza. As the story goes, despite all of the high-minded ethical attention and debates about Artificial Intelligence, this decision to blow up an American citizen, already cornered and pinned down, was improvised, on the spot, in less than 20 minutes with a hastily refurbished, Northrup Grumman model F5, in order to deliver a lethal pound of C-4 explosives. (Nicholas West: activistpost.com, July 2016).

As a result, the suspect, Micah Xavier Johnson, age 25, summarily denied both trial and due process, was dissolved into a spray of crimson mist by an unprecedented use of this semi-autonomous killing device. Hastily given the tabloid style moniker "Micah X", in order to link him to Black activist Malcolm X, while labeled "disgruntled military veteran" (he served as a carpenter in Afghanistan); the media meta-message was that we should not be overly concerned that police personnel felt fully entitled to serve as judge, jury and executioner; the bad guy deserved it. Never mind that there was only some potentially dubious, grainy video footage along with no direct evidence that Johnson actually was the shooter. Dallas Police Chief, David Brown sought justification for this extra-judicial killing, by issuing a statement claiming that, after hours of failed negotiations, as a last resort, in order to save the lives of officers and other citizens, we saw "no other option" but to employ our bomb robot.

Really? Why not tear gas, a stun grenade, or waiting until their suspect ran out of water or fell asleep? And, how is it that one disturbed individual with a semi-automatic rifle designed in 1943 can hold off an entire, highly trained urban police unit? (Knifemare 69: Ralph Sinamon). For the awake and aware, it seems clear that there is more going on with this high profile story than a lack of imagination within the Dallas police force, now claiming a need for expensive lethal robot devices and other military style tactical weapons, "in order to save lives". (Or-Well) (ClaireBernish: activistpost.com: July13, 2016).

These remote controlled, extra-judicial, mass and "accidental wedding party" aerial strike killings, have been going on for quite awhile now in seven countries; as an integral part of our "terrorism against Arab, Muslims and other non-Christians. So now, in Dallas and other high profile media events, the reality of the human horror and ongoing atrocities carried out by these infernal, remotely controlled robotic and drone killing-machines, is now becoming very real as it is increasingly unleashed upon our own citizens. As a result, our "officers of the peace" are distancing from any genuine human interaction with nation-wide and local citizenry.

Our blatantly imperialist, inhumane policies, are not without long term consequences and other repercussions for us as well as for countless others. Even our blind-loyal, patriotic, drone-pilot, joy stick operators, supposedly secure within their air conditioned, cube farm locations, are suffering from trauma. And, given my doubts as to motivations to deploy this hastily outfitted, remotely controlled "killer robot" bomb tossing tractor- thing, and in light of growing suspicions about an increasing frequency of fear based, staged-events, orchestrated to further the interests of our Deep Security State, I decided to check online with Jay Dyer and other media analysts over at 21st Century Wire.

Dismiss the following, if you will and also if you would just rather not know anything at all about what might really be going on. And still, for the rest of us who have not as yet given up, much remains to be seriously considered in regard to that Dallas shooter event. As Jay Dyer pointed out, the date of 7/7 resonates with the dubious 7/7 London bombings implicating Muslim terrorists, which also took place on the exact date and exact places designated by scheduled drills. (Also true of 9/11, Sandy Hook, Boston, Paris, Brussels Nice, San Bernadino, Orlando, Dallas and other terror-related events). In keeping with this pattern, there were reports of a mass shooter drill held 40 miles north of Dallas just eight days prior to the July 7th attack. This business of drills happening on or near staged event locations, seriously mandates ongoing and close attention. In regard to the 7/7 Dallas events, alternative media sleuths in addition to noting the 7/7date ... also noted that Dallas was the location for filming the futuristic Robocop (1986/87) action film, which could be viewed as an excursion into some long term predictive programming.

In this Robocop film narrative, we are introduced to a futuristic, violent, consumer-driven society ruled over by a huge, trans-national corporation. And so, this film set within some near-now time frame, features a police officer, murdered by criminals, subsequently revived as a super-human cyborg, the law-enforcer known as "Robo-Cop". Art imitates life; vice-versa or predictive programming? Revenge is the only solution for injustice? Now, we need to know, more than ever, just exactly, from whom or where is this is toxic, ongoing, "us and them" violent and revenge advocating message emanating, what is their agenda, and why ever would any compassionate, sentient human being agree to this end game of self-destructive madness?

And now, the lies? Who can know what is true anymore with so many reality-altering digital technological interventions readily available to any highest bidder. In taking a skeptical stance in relation to the Dallas events, Jay Dyer raises concerns about a puzzling reality, revealing that over 50 Dallas police officers resigned in July and more than 40 others quit during the month of May. Why these mass resignations? Could it be that these honest officers were replaced by trusted National Security State operatives? Naturally, I don't know since I was not there... and so we are left with nothing more than active, and even over-active, speculations. Could it be that Johnson was, in fact, a well trained military crisis-actor assigned to play a role (patsy), to agitate and theatrically provoke police...and stoke populace fears in a staged media spectacle, for the corporate-owned and state-controlled mainstream media; in service of a larger agenda to divide and conquer? (Jay Dyer and Daily Shooter: 21stcenturywire.com). In exploring the question of whether such high profile events were staged or real or some combination of both, it can be helpful to "follow the money", ask "who benefits" and also pay close attention to what social and political changes, as well as laws and new policies, are proposed or enacted as a result of these high-profile events.

At this point, it is clear that an ongoing militarization of law enforcement personnel is continuing to escalate. Just a few days after the 7/7 Dallas drama, another high profile confrontation took place between police and peaceful Black Lives Matter protesters in Baton Rouge. Fortunately there were no casualties and a photo snapped by Jonathan Bachman (Reuters), clearly shows both the dignity and plight of a peaceful protester. Ieshia Evans, an elegant, solitary Black woman is standing tall, calm and perfectly balanced in the face of a line of police, accompanied by armored vehicles, in quite pricey, full-out storm-trooper, military gear, (who benefits?)

face-shields, assault weapons, gas-masks, shin-guards; all apparently deemed necessary in order to deal with an un-armed woman, standing quietly in a flowing dress. A pair of these well armored and apparently fearful, officers warily approached and then arrested her for the crime of just "being there while Black". She was later released without charges and the image went viral. Critics of the Black Lives Matter movement, including "Blue Lives Matter", claim that this incident was staged along with spurious claims of a new race war. (RT: July 11, 2016)

American novelist Sinclair Lewis was wrong. It can happen here and has been happening here with no end in sight, as we weather this long, hot, black and blue, summer of rage, and it is not even August. (See. ASJ: "Black August" At Paradigm's Edge, 2014). As legendary journalist, Bill Moyers observed, "The hills are alive with the sounds of menace." From my perspective, these unfortunate dramas represent recent iterations of a long and troubled historical fractal enabled by increasing legions of our un-informed who have blindly accepted the dubious myth of our unquestionable, American goodness and ongoing innocence. Despite our self-idealizing historical narrative of exceptionalism and equal opportunity, our country was birthed through injustice and exploitation, racism and genocide. An honest look at our long record of policing, reveals deep roots as least as far back as the blatant cruelty of 19th century slave patrols when law enforcement personnel, often assisted by vigilantes, were authorized to stop, question, harass, punish, torture and even kill any Black person, anytime and anywhere, including plantation headquarters, leaving grief and terror in their wake. These racist, state and local mandated patrols held a clear mandate to deal harshly with rebellious or runaway slaves. Similar barbaric tactics were unleashed against "renegade" Native Americans who dared to escape from their prison camp reservation sites.

While there has been some real social and legal progress, over time, we still find ourselves within an extraordinarily violent society, wherein police can shoot, kill, Taser, batter and torture with impunity; especially, but not only, any suspect of color, as well as the disabled, mentally ill, emotionally distressed and other vulnerable groups. Out on our roads, a broken tail light or failure to signal could result in "death by cop" and more than a few drivers arrested have died while in "protective custody" (nearly 7,000 in Texas alone). As Daniel Denvir advises, we are beyond any hope of "fixing" our police..since they are nothing other than a mirror reflecting back to us the true nature of our so-called democracy which is looking more and more like a vengeful, warrior society, controlled by cynical, venom spewing, political gargoyles. If we are serious about having "officers of the peace" rather than a domestic military at war with it's own citizenry, we're going to have to get honest about who and what American law enforcement actually serves.
